Sexual exploitation and abuse are always wrong

Sexual abuse is when a powerful person makes a less powerful person have sex. It can happen by force, or using unfair control.

Sexual exploitation is when a powerful person gets sex for something a less powerful person needs.

UNITED NATIONS
NEPAL

This leaflet is from the United Nations (UN).

The United Nations (UN) is an organisation made up of many countries working together. It works to make the world a safer and better place.

Zero Tolerance

Zero Tolerance means something is never allowed.

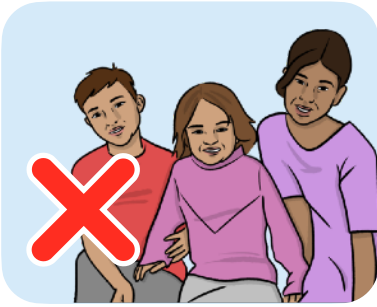

UN staff are never allowed to do sexual abuse or sexual exploitation.

If an aid worker does sexual abuse or sexual exploitation, they will have to leave their job.

No excuse

Being sexual to a child under 18 is always wrong.

Please do not stay quiet if an aid worker does any sexual act with you.

The UN does not allow any sexual acts from aid workers.

Beneficiaries

Beneficiaries are the people the UN supports.

Aid workers must not be sexual to beneficiaries.

Please speak up if an aid worker does a sexual act with you.

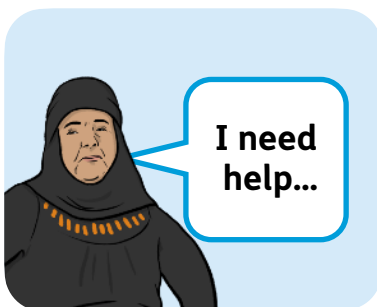

Paying for sex

All aid is free.

Aid workers must not ask for sex in return for any aid.

If this happens to you, please speak up.

Do the right thing

If you know someone has been sexually exploited or abused, please speak up.

This may save the life of the survivor.

Tell us

Remember, any sexual exploitation or abuse against you is never your fault.

Please tell us if you think UN staff or an aid worker is doing sexual exploitation or abuse.

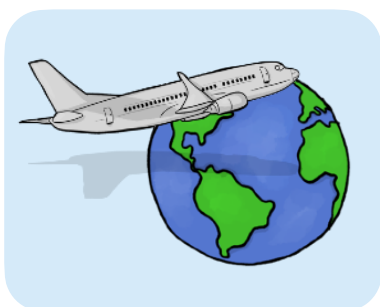

If an aid worker has done sexual exploitation or abuse to you, please phone us at:

01-4290098

We may:

- Tell them to leave their job.

- Send them back to their home country.

We may also:

- Stop them from working for the UN in the future.

- Tell the police.

You can also phone these national help lines:

- Nepal police: 100

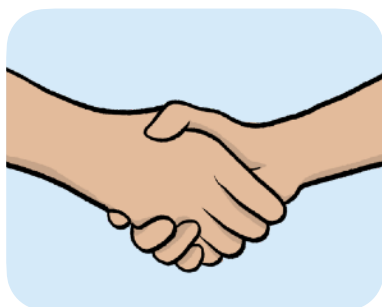

- Women's Commission: 1145

- Child Helpline: 1098

Doing bad things to someone sexually is always wrong

Everyone should be able to:

- Be treated with respect.

- Live without others doing sexual things that they do not want.

- Be safe.
